

How, even in hard times, can one find the beauty that lies within? What can be understood as magical acts? Can one speed dial Satan and expect an easy life? Is Lucifer a better alternative? How do buskers live? Is metaphysics any less important than Newton's laws? In how many countries can one possibly mess it all up and start again? How does art come as the strongest means of understanding between humans, and how important are animals? What is actually the purpose of destruction, and can one recover from society-induced madness? Those are some of the questions explored through the experience within these pages. The good news is, any of the topics narrated in this book and their associated ideas have already been extensively researched in extenso.... separately by different authors from different backgrounds. These pages contain the confessions of a Jack-of-All Trades which is also an adventure.
