

The author has risen to the highest honor humanity can achieve—surviving the attempts of Satan on her life and allowing God to use her pain to save others. This book is more than a beautiful, courageous, and inspiring story; it is a life vest for those who are drowning in the sea of abuse. Arie L. Dudley Anderson was born in Mississippi, raised in Poplar Bluff, Missouri, and now lives in New York. Arie is a single mother through divorce, who is teaching her two teenage children the Word of God by living it out before them. Arie is a Sunday school teacher of many years and is empowering young girls with the Word of God, as she teaches them to rightly divide the Word of God. Returning to school at age thirty-five as a high school dropout, Arie graduated from The College of New Rochelle with her high school equivalence and bachelor's degree in liberal arts. Arie continues her education and will soon be graduating with her master's degree in mental health counseling.
